Age and bad weather combined to destroy an old culvert below a section of KY 52 East at St. Helens.

Slip sliding away

Recent flooding delivered the death knell to a section of KY 52 East at St. Helens last Friday leading to closure of the route to Jackson.

H. B. Elkins, spokesperson for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet in Jackson, said that an old culvert has given way due to continued water damage. He said the “drainage structure over Double Cabin Creek, suffered damage during high water last year. Department of Highways personnel patched the damaged pavement at the tie as a temporary measure.”

However, flooding last week caused the eastbound lane to start crumbling. Since then more of the roadway has fallen in.

“This is a high priority,” Elkins said of the need to repair the road. “We don’t want to Band Aid it.”

He said emergency state funds are being sought to give a permanent fix to the break. Elkins said that could take the form of a bridge or a concrete box culvert.

Approximately 2,200 vehicles per day travel the road.

The official signed detour uses KY 11 and KY 30 through Booneville.

Other routes include St. Helens to Primrose, or from the northern part of Lee County through Wolfe County. (See map on Page 6)

May 28 last day for school

Lee County students will have their last day in school on Thursday, May 28, if no more days are lost and the state legislature helps.

The Lee County School Board Tuesday night approved changes to the school calendar that would allow students to get out on that date. The changes are that school is to be held May 25, Memorial Day; on April 8, which was to be the first of three days off for spring vacation; and on May 19, Election Day. The General Assembly must pass legislation allowing schools to meet on Election Day.

According to Director of Pupil Personnel Ray Shuler the changes are necessary because 20 days and four hours have been missed so far.

Also during Tuesday night’s regular monthly meeting, the school board accepted the resignation of Larry Burgess from the board. He resigned citing personal reasons. Burgess served on the board for 20 years.

The Lee County Archery Team was recognized for advancing to state competition after finishing third in the region.

Coach Jeff Perdue said that 31 students started the season, and 29 have remained.

Recognition was also given to the high school girls basketball team for advancing to the region after finishing second in the district.

The Math Counts Team advanced to state competition once again.

Teachers Julia Bishop and Glenna Wright were congratulated for obtaining National Board certification.

Superintendent Dr. James Evans, Jr., was authorized to submit an application to the state for Lee County Schools to become a District of Innovation.

Similar authorization was given for Lee County to become a non-traditional instruction district.

Evans said that a survey of students found that many have access to Internet.

Board Chair William Owens said that AT&T had contacted him and thanked the district for support in passage of a bill that deregulates landline phone service. He said the company has promised to increase broadband service.

Blanton Coates, representative of Codell Construction, told the board that little work has been done on construction work at Southside Elementary because of bad weather.

The board did approve the second payout for the project. It amounted to $102,945.

Instructional Supervisor Steve Carroll told the board of a new program called Future Ready. He said that many college students get degrees without ever being on campus. The Future Ready program, Carroll said, is the high school equal of that.

He also said that students in the high school TEALS program are to be going to Seattle at the end of this month. While there, they will tour Microsoft and Google.

High School Principal Mark Murray said that students took the ACT exam last week, and he believes there might be some improvement in scores.

Shuler, who is also transportation director, said that three buses are affected by the closure of KY 52 East. He said they are running about 15 minutes later than normal.

The board agreed to create a math recovery specialist position. The job is to be posted.

A nickel tax hearing is scheduled for March 18 at 6 p. m. at the board offices. A special board meeting is to follow.

Seven sentenced

Make up day in Lee Circuit Court

Seven people were sentenced last Wednesday in a make up session of Lee Circuit Court. Severe weather in February had forced the move of the court day.

David Johnson (1968) was sentenced to five years, diverted for five years, and to run concurrent with a similar sentence in another case. The charge in both cases was first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance. The diversion is not to be supervised.

Matthew R. Hager (1986) was sentenced to three years to serve, and ordered to pay $1,500 in restitution. The charge was receiving stolen property under $10,000.

Richard A. Robinson (1987) was sentenced to five years for a diversion violation per his original plea.

Ashley McIntosh (1983) was sentenced to one year for promoting contraband in the first degree. She must also attend substance abuse treatment.

Gregory S. Deck (1991) was sentenced to two years for promoting contraband in the first degree. He must also attend substance abuse treatment.

Ricky Kenton McIntosh (1996) was sentenced to five years each, to run consecutive with each other, for theft by unlawful taking under $500 and assault when under extreme emotional distress. The sentences are diverted. He must also pay $500 restitution.

Jay Shoemaker (1976) was sentenced to one year, with 193 days conditionally discharged for two years for theft by unlawful taking under $500. Shoemaker has already served the rest of the one year. He must also pay $770 in restitution.

Also last Wednesday, Judge Michael Dean set a revocation hearing for Levi C. Ross (1988) on April 17.

A bench warrant was issued for Bradrord Thomas (1976) for alleged probation violation.

Judge Dean was to issue a bench warrant for Paul M. Shelton (1982). The charge is flagrant non-support.

The judge set March 23 as the trial date for Elizabeth Brandenburg (1945). The charge is first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance.

Brack T. Newman (1992) is to be sentenced March 20. The charges are receiving stolen property under $10,000 and persistent felon offender in the second degree.

Yvette Horvath (1965) entered a plea and is to be sentenced April 17. The charge is fraudulent claims for benefits.

Curtis J. Phillips (1980) has a trial set for May 18. The charges are convicted felon in possession of a handgun and persistent felony offender in the first degree.

Geri Danielle Cornett (1985) has a trial set for July 22. The charge is promoting contraband in the first degree.

A motion for shock probation for Glenn Turner (1982) was submitted.

Shelby Kincaid (1971) entered a guilty plea and is to be sentenced April 17. The charges are burglary in the third degree and theft by unlawful taking $500 or more but under $10,000.

The Commonwealth withdrew its motion for diversion revocation for Marsha Marcum (1981).

Adam Clapp (1974) and Tonilynn Clapp (1976) paid costs in full.

City’s weather cost - $44,000

Recent bad weather cost the City of Beattyville around $44,000, according to Mayor John Smith.

Speaking Monday evening to the city council, Smith said that the first snow, which dumped about a foot of the white stuff on Lee County, cost approximately $24,000. That consisted of actual costs plus additional man-hours.

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

By State Representative Cluster Howard

With just a handful of days remaining in this brief, 30-day session, Kentucky was hit again by a record winter storm. Despite the weather, we’ve made the most of our time this week as we work to finalize details on legislation set as priorities early on by our House Majority. The state Senate is in the process of deliberating many of our bills after passage by the House, and we’re all doing what we can to shepherd the legislation through the final stages of the process. Snow, power outages and temperatures in the single digits caused us to delay formal proceedings on the final two days of the week, but negotiations did continue on issues like combating the state’s heroin epidemic, and providing protections for couples in dating relationships.

This week, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted in support of House Bill 8 that will allow dating couples to seek civil protection from domestic violence, sexual abuse or stalking. Currently, these protective orders are only available to those who are married, have lived together or share a child together. Sadly, Kentucky is the only remaining state that does not offer civil protection of any kind to dating couples and, according to federal data, also leads the nation with the highest percentage of women who are stalked. After 10 years of work on this bill, it’s time we finish the job and enact this measure. I am hopeful House Bill 8 will be passed favorably by the Senate this time around.

Work continues on compromise legislation addressing the growing heroin epidemic in Kentucky, and statewide support of House Bill 213 remains strong. This approach creates more treatment options for those addicted to heroin so we can break that viscous cycle, and makes the rescue drug naloxone more widely available to first responders, pharmacists and families. The bill varies criminal sentencing to target the largest traffickers with the highest penalties, and allows needle exchange programs, which have been shown to dramatically cut down on infectious disease. HB 213 also includes a provision granting immunity to those who call for emergency help to report an overdose. The Senate has its own version of a heroin bill and negotiations to hammer out differences remain positive. I was pleased to support House Bill 213 on the House floor.

The health and safety of Kentuckians served as the focus of a number of measures moving forward through the process. This week, the Senate approved our House Bill 298 providing $132.5 million in state funding to help construct a new research facility at the University of Kentucky that will focus on the state’s most serious health issues, such as cancer, cardiovascular disease and diabetes. UK will fund the other half through research contracts and private fund-raising. The building will bring researchers together to work in teams across disciplines to address these health challenges, and will serve as an important economic catalyst, as well, with an estimated 1,623 jobs expected to be created with an annual economic impact of $116.2 million. Budget matters are normally considered during our longer, 60-day session held in even-numbered years, but we opened up the process this year to move forward on this important, potentially life-saving project as soon as possible.

Other important health matters considered this week include legislation requiring health insurers to cover the cost of follow-up testing resulting from a colorectal cancer screening. SB 61 was sent to Gov. Steve Beshear after being approved in the Senate and House. Additionally, a bill that would require the state to post a list of all Kentucky stroke hospitals and stroke centers online and distribute the list to local emergency services providers is on its way to becoming law.

At the request of our hospices and medical care providers, SB 77 passed, which will allow an end-of-life order known as a “medical order for scope of treatment,” or MOST. Typically used by hospice patients in their last six months of life, a MOST spells out a patient’s wishes for their end-of-life care. Unlike advance directives, the orders are considered to be physician’s orders and are signed by both the patient or patient’s legal surrogate, and the patient’s physician.

With time running out, I am disappointed the Senate has not taken action on our efforts to shore up the Kentucky Teachers Retirement System through House Bill 4. While this approach raised some concerns, it represents a good faith effort on our part to protect the promises we’ve made to teachers and retirees for their dedicated service to Kentucky’s children. If our Senate colleagues refuse to act on this issue, we’ll continue to work on this and other solutions that may be offered in the months ahead.

After we iron out details on several important measures this next week, the legislature will recess before returning in late March to consider overriding any vetoes by the governor and wrap up this 2015 session for good. I encourage you to contact me with any questions or concerns as we move forward through these final days or throughout the upcoming interim session. I can be reached by calling the legislative message line at 1-800-372-7181.

Several residents have called me about issues with their heat and electricity this week. Please feel free to contact me with any of these issues and I will do everything I can to help. I will also be sending an update to the teachers that contacted me this session. It is very important for everyone to take part in our political process.

I want to thank our sheriffs, mayors, county judge-executives, magistrates and other first responders who have helped their commu-

The other $20,000, the mayor said, came from a new pump at the water plant.

Smith was pleased with the workings of the plant saying that at no time during the high flood did the intake lose its effectiveness.

He and the council members also had high praise during their meeting for city workers who met numerous challenges during the past few weeks.

Council Member Sam Cockerham noted that hundreds of thousands of people in Eastern Kentucky were without water, but not in Lee County.

Also during Monday night’s regular monthly meeting, the council agreed to declare surplus three trucks – a 1997 Chevrolet and two 2006 Chevrolets.

Agreement was given to the first reading of a change in the ordinance concerning city employee wage scales.

The change, which does not affect any present employees, was brought about by an increase in the Consumer Price Index of .8 percent during 2014. It affects only the minimum and maximum of each salary range.

Mayor Smith said that work has begun on next year’s budget. He said the first reading should be ready by May.

A review of the financials showed that the General Fund was in the positive for February by $2,921. Year-to-date it is in the black by $109,555.

Garbage was $6,235 to the positive for the month and $48,085 for the year.

Sewer had $7,130 in the black for February and stands at $54,579 year-to-date.

An Open Letter to the Batty Republican Senators in Washington in reference to “An Open Letter to the Leaders of the Islamic Republic of Iran”,

It has come to our attention while observing your continued lunacy, tortuous interference with, seditious and stifling acts regarding the negotiations as per the sole responsibility of the President of the United States, that you may not fully understand the United States Constitutional system. Actually, it’s obvious. Thus, We the People of the United States are writing to bring to your attention some basic features of our Constitution. Most importantly, the checks and balances of power between the legislative, executive, and judicial branches—as laid out in Articles I, II, and III of the Constitution—safeguard our freedoms by preventing any single branch from becoming too powerful such as the Senate.

As you proceed in your bully letter writing campaign you need to develop a basic understanding as to the “legal” process required to make binding international agreements, the different characters of federal offices, basic grammar, punctuation and usage rules in addition to simple mathematics. I suggest you consider the following lessons for your sake and the sake of our nation before preceding any further.

First, under our Constitution (the actual United States Constitution – not cliff notes and right wing talk show rants) the President has the full authority to negotiate international agreements; the Senate takes up a resolution of ratification, by which the Senate formally gives its advice and consent, empowering the President of the United States to proceed with ratification.

Second, the offices of our Constitution have different characteristics; for example, the President of the United States may serve only two 4-year terms (such is the case with President Barack Obama elected twice by a majority of American voters) whereas US Senators may serve an unlimited number of 6-year terms. That is unless they meet the standards for impeachment: “All civil Officers of the United States, shall be removed from Office on Impeachment for, and Conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors.” We will save that lesson for another day, however allow us to remind you James Madison himself helped to establish the final standard for impeachment specifically to prevent Congress from diminishing the President’s independence. I’d pay close attention to high Crimes and Misdemeanors if I were you. Democratic Senate candidates actually received 20 million more cumulative votes than did Republican Senate candidates in 2014. A fact you left out of your letter to the leaders of Iran, which is, at best, disingenuous and at worst, intentionally misleading. As applied today, for instance, President Obama will leave office in January 2017, but considering the above numbers, even if said consideration is taken on by the least capable analytical minds (such is the case of 47 current Republican US Senators) it is almost certain the next President of the United States will be Democrat. In case I didn’t mention and since it is clear Math isn’t your forte’ – 47 doesn’t reach the 2/3 mark required to ratify, not ratify or say overturn the VETO by the President of a pipeline from Canada. News flash.... the leaders of Iran have basic mathematical skills. In fact, an Iranian was the first woman to ever win the Nobel Prize of Mathematics (Field Medal) - Maryam Mirzakhani. We wanted to further mention you stated in your letter “most of us will remain in office, well beyond then – perhaps decades” well not so fast.... Of the 34 seats currently up in 2016, Republicans will be defending 24 more seats than the Democrats defended in 2014, including seven in states Barack Obama carried in 2012. So you’re insinuating comment is significantly overreaching.

What these above lessons mean is that We the People will consider any unapproved action by 47 Republican Senate leaders as nothing more than a pompous, pontificating, pitiful, ignorant, poorly written, blowhard attempt to diminish the office of the President duly elected by the majority of American voters as a crime against our nation. We will respond accordingly. We hope this letter enriches your knowledge of our constitutional system and promotes your willingness to serve accordingly.

Dea Riley on behalf of the US voting public.

Eye to Eye

A CLOUDED FORECAST

When you experience a gradual blurring or dimming of vision, you may have the earliest symptoms of a cataract. You may also see “halos” around lights. A cataract is any clouding or opacity in the normally transparent eye lens. Most cataracts develop as part of the aging process as the chemical composition of the lens changes. Studies have also shown that prolonged exposure to sunlight over many years (particularly the ultraviolet-B rays) can hasten the development of cataracts. Cataracts can occur at any age and may be due to an eye injury, certain eye diseases, medical conditions (such as diabetes), heredity, birth defects, some medications (such as steroids), excessive alcohol consumption, and smoking.

Once removed, cataracts will not grow back. At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, we recommend frequent eye examinations and tests which are critical for monitoring your eyes for any changes and may help prevent unnecessary vision loss. If you have questions regarding cataracts, or any other eye health concerns please call us at 606-666-9393 to schedule an appointment. We’re located at 540 Jett Drive. We specialize in “EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES.”

P.S. In the early stages of a cataract, stronger lighting and eyeglasses can help with blurred vision. When impaired vision interferes with your usual activities, safe and effective cataract surgery is the best answer.

God speaks

By Billy Davis

God speaks to us. He cares for us and reveals himself. It is up to us to listen.

“God who at sundry times and divers manners spake in time past unto fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his son.” (Hebrews 1:1&2)

RELEVANT

God does not spend his “time” in idle talk. What he speaks to mankind is always rich, timely and sound. It is relevant.

Too often the speech of man is not really relevant it is often just idle.

Wilkerson says, “Never rise to peak till you have something to say; and when you have said it cease.”

I guess it is good to hook your tongue up with your brain. Relevant speech is always needed.

REDEMPTIVE

God’s actions and speech are always redemptive. He is a God of redemption.

“Alas! Alas! Why the souls that were forfeit once; and He that might the vantage best have took, found out the remedy.” (Shakespeare)

Remedy is redemption.

Job declared, “I know that my redeemer liveth... whom I shall see for myself...” (Job 19:25&27)

REVIVING

In church when the good Lord speaks to us through his minister (if anointed) it is always reviving to us, lifts us up into heavenly places. That is why we go to church. We leave church revived. It is why we need to go to church.

Gestures of remembrance aren't what they used to be;
they're better.

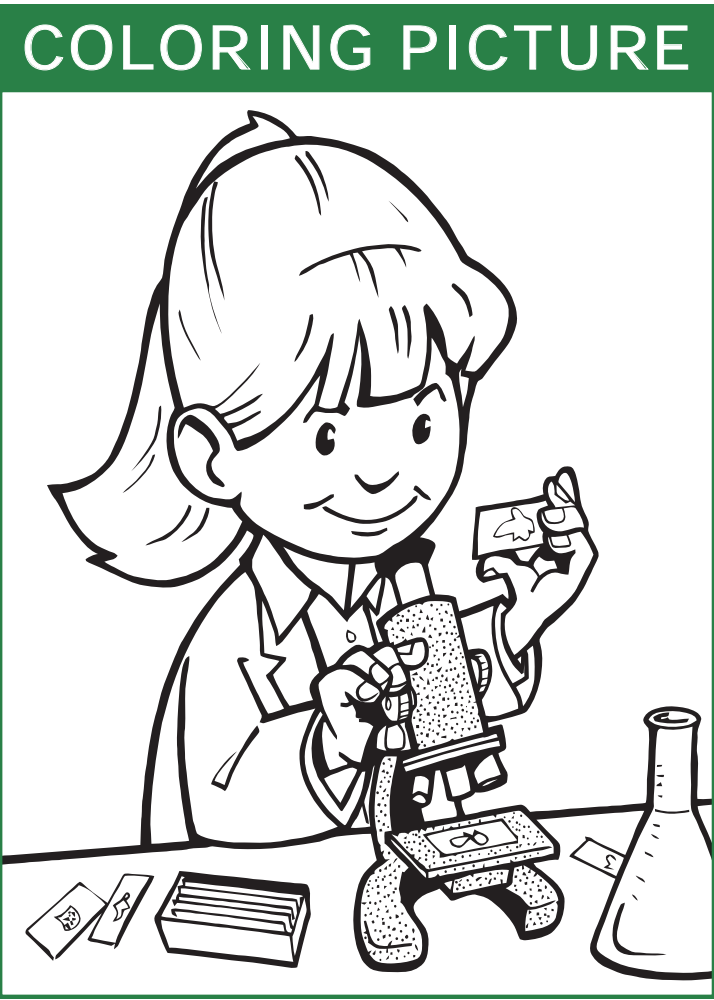

No longer are gestures like lighting a candle in memory restricted by distance or busy schedules. This virtual candle lighting allows families to share a symbolic and loving ritual across the street, or across the country. Visit our website to learn more.

The Scientific Method

Have you ever wondered how scientists make discoveries? They all follow the same general process. It is called the scientific method.

There are six steps to the scientific method. First, scientists ask a question, like "How can you keep squirrels from eating the seed in the birdfeeder?" Then, they do some research. They may watch the squirrels to see how they are getting to the birdfeeder and find out what others have tried to keep squirrels away from their birdfeeders. Next, scientists make a hypothesis, or an educated guess, on how to solve the problem. They may reason that the squirrels will stop eating the seed if the birdfeeder is moved out of their reach.

Scientists must do some experiments to see if the hypothesis is right. They may move the birdfeeder to different places and measure how much seed the squirrels eat. When the experiments are done, scientists can do an analysis of the results. If the squirrels ate less seed, scientists can make the conclusion their hypothesis was right and look at their data to determine the best place for the birdfeeder. If the squirrels ate the seed no matter where the birdfeeder was placed, scientists can conclude their hypothesis was wrong and look for another solution.

It might not be where the birdfeeder is placed but what is inside it that is causing the problem. Switching to seed squirrels do not like may solve the problem. To know for sure, you'll have to try the scientific method.

PERCENT

That's how many Kentucky adults read a daily, Sunday or weekly newspaper in an average week.

That's more than 5 out of 6 people.

And truth be told, we like to think that 6th person may be listening while one of the other five reads out loud.

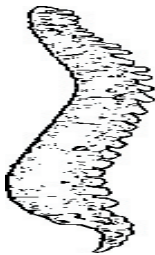

It's all right here. In the newspaper.

This fact brought to you by the Kentucky Press Association and its 162 member newspapers.
